

Comprehension and Discussion Activities for the Movie

Mulan

This module has been designed to accompany the film Mulan (1998).

Mulan is based on the 4th century Chinese legend of a young girl named Fa Mulan. When China is invaded, Mulan's father is asked to go to war. Mulan fears that if he becomes a soldier he will be killed. To save him and to prove herself to her family and community, she disguises herself as a man to become a soldier instead of her father. Mulan tells the story of her journey into war, which challenges society's expectations of women from her community.

The module consists of teacher's notes and three handouts that you can copy and give to your students. If you don't have access to a copier, you can write these on the board.

You might like to do many of these activities in students' first language. It is important that they understand the ideas behind the story, and this is easier in their own language.

Worksheet 3: After You Watch

Plot Summary

Fa Mulan is getting ready to meet the matchmaker – the woman who arranges who she can marry. If she gets a good husband, she will bring honor to her family. Unfortunately, Mulan accidentally sets fire to the matchmaker, who gets very angry.

The Huns, led by the evil Shan Yu, invade China. Each family must send one man to be a soldier. Fa Zhou, although old and injured, is the only man in his family. Mulan decides to go instead. She disguises herself as a man and joins the army. She knows that if others discover that she is a woman, she will be killed.

Mulan's First Ancestor wants to send an ancestor to protect and help her. He asks Mushu, a small dragon, to awaken the "Great Stone Dragon." Unfortunately, Mushu accidentally destroys this Dragon. He decides to go protect Mulan himself.

Mulan joins the army and trains to become a soldier with a group led by Captain Li Shang, the son of General Li. The men finish their training, but Chi Fu, the Emperor's counsellor, refuses to let them go to battle. He believes that they are not prepared to go to war. Mushu writes a fake letter from the General, however, ordering Li Shang to take his men to battle. When they arrive at the battlefield, they find that General Li and his men have been killed.

Captain Li Shang and his troops are attacked by the Hun army. As the Huns come down the mountain, Mulan takes the cannon and fires the rocket at a mountain of snow, which causes an avalanche. The Huns are buried under the snow. Mulan rescues Captain Li from being buried by the snow, but is injured. Li Shang calls a doctor as Mulan faints. The doctor discovers that she is a woman. Although the punishment for her actions is death, Captain Li decides not to kill her, as she saved his life the day before. He expels her from the army, and she decides to return home, saddened by her failure.

As she prepares to leave, she discovers that the Huns are still alive. She goes to the Palace and tries to warn Captain Li's army as they are celebrating their believed victory, but they don't listen to her. The Huns kidnap the Emperor.

Captain Li Shang and his troops try to follow the Huns into the palace but are unsuccessful. Mulan thinks of a plan. She and some of the soldiers disguise themselves as concubines and sneak into the palace. The Huns are distracted by the "women," and Mulan and her friends save the Emperor. Captain Li and Mulan are still in the palace, fighting Shan Yu. Shan Yu is about kill Captain Li when Mulan again saves him.

The Emperor bows to Mulan, an extremely high honor. The Emperor then offers Mulan a job in the palace, but Mulan politely refuses the offer because she wants to return to her family.

Mulan's family is pleased to see her come back. Captain Shang also arrives to visit Mulan. She invites him to stay for dinner.
