GUPTA ACHIEVEMENTS JOURNAL

Directions for writing a journal Commemorating Gupta Achievements:

Imagine that you are a traveler who has spent a month in the summer traveling in India in the year 450 C.E. You want to describe the most remarkable and impressive Gupta achievements you discovered during your journey in order to encourage others to visit India.

- Write your journal like a diary. Remember that this journal will be read by someone who has never been to India and knows little about life in the Gupta Empire. It is the year 400 C.E, during the rule of Chandra Gupta II.
- Choose 4 locations in India. At each location, write a journal entry. Date each entry and describe your thoughts, feelings, observations, and actions for that day.
- For each entry, include vivid and accurate references to at least one of the following topics: astronomy, literature, mathematics medicine, metal work, painting, roads, sculpture, and universities.
