Section	Supporting information
Section One Short answer 60% of the written exam 6–8 questions: choices within questions e.g. contexts, industry areas Suggested working time: 120 minutes	Candidates respond to stimulus material, which may include cartoons, diagrams, timelines, tables/charts, graphs. Candidates demonstrate their understanding and skills in the specific context of their studies and in response to a given scenario e.g. responding to a specific situation in an industry area/workplace of their choice. Candidates are asked to provide evidence for their answers from their own experience. Case studies may be given such as specific situations in a workplace or examples of career management which require candidate analysis and response. Questions may be based on personal portfolio which can be brought into the exam. These may include questions such as choosing evidence from portfolio to use in a simulated job interview in an industry area of their choice.
Section Two Extended answer 40% of the written exam Two questions: choices within questions Suggested working time: 60 minutes	Questions require integration and application of knowledge and skills within a limited context, for example at a local, state or national level or within a specific industry or profession. Given situations, candidates explain what they would do and why. Candidates use evidence to respond to case studies, for example information on changes to workplace agreements could be provided and then candidates could discuss the effects on their proposed career journey within a particular industry. Candidates need to use their personal portfolio (which can be brought into the exam) to answer detailed questions about their future career direction. Questions have detailed scaffolding to direct candidate responses.
