Tax file number

Your tax file number (TFN) is your personal reference number in the tax and super systems.

Your TFN is an important part of your tax and super records as well as your identity, so keep it secure.

Your TFN is yours for life. You keep the same TFN even if you change your name, change jobs, move interstate or go overseas.

You don't have to have a TFN, but without one you pay more tax. You also won't be able to apply for government benefits, lodge your tax return electronically or get an Australian business number (ABN).

Apply for a TFN

How you apply for a TFN will depend on your circumstances:

Career Objective

I am a high school student eager to use my strong customer service experience and communication skills to provide outstanding service to a range of clients. I am keen to develop new skills to complement my studies and to progress in the customer service industry.

Education

Tareville High School
Expected completion date: 2013

Tareville, NSW

Key Skills

Interpersonal skills

I have extensive experience in customer service, which has helped me to develop strong interpersonal skills. I get along well with others and always conduct myself with the utmost professionalism.

Communication skills

I am a confident communicator, having developed strong verbal communication skills in my customer-facing roles. I am able to clearly provide information and interact with customers in a friendly manner.

Ability to work in teams

I have worked in team environments for over three years. In my current position, I work with a small team of eight staff who specialise in print and copy projects. We are a self-managed team who coordinate all customer projects in our department to deliver a great result to the customer.

Multi-tasking

The CopyJet print and copy department is a busy environment in which I have had to quickly develop the ability to effectively multi-task jobs in order to manage my various responsibilities. I am able to manage my time and work without supervision.

Employment History

November 2010 – Present

Professional Development

Ongoing professional development through courses in auditing, accounting and computing:

- 2011 – Applied tax course
- 2010 – Diploma of Quality Auditing
- 2009 – Payroll tax workshop

Sample resume - Year 10 or earlier + no paid work experience (A Youth Central sample resume)

Use this sample resume as a basis for your own resume if:

- your highest level of study is Year 10 or earlier
- you don't have any formal (paid) work experience.

NOTE: DON'T SUBMIT YOUR RESUME AS A .PDF. Some recruitment software has trouble reading .pdfs. Because of this we recommend that you always submit your resume as a .doc, .docx or .rtf.

If your highest level of study is Year 10 or earlier, and you haven't had any paid work experience, the types of jobs you'll probably be applying for will be very popular. There will be a large number of other candidates, which means your resume needs to effectively sell you and help you to stand out.

This sample resume has been designed to focus on:

- general skills that help you work in a team and as part of an organisation
- personal attributes that will help you learn to work in a professional work environment
- key strengths and contributions that show you are a stand-out applicant
- work experience or volunteer work that demonstrates your strengths and attributes
- a written testimonial that shows you are capable of transitioning into the world of work.

Other things that you can put on your resume include:

- any sporting or community club participation (if relevant)
- any hobbies or interests that are relevant to the job or demonstrate your professional experience.

This sample resume is two pages long, but with your level of experience you may find your resume ends up being one page. This is more than acceptable when you're just starting out in the world of work.

If your resume ends up being three pages long, you're probably providing too much information - try cutting some things out and sticking to two pages maximum.

If you have any questions about this sample resume please contact us at youthcentral@dhhs.vic.gov.au.

For more information about job applications, including more resume and cover letter samples, visit www.youthcentral.vic.gov.au.

WHAT EMPLOYERS WANT

We've talked to heaps of employers to find out what they're looking for in potential employees and here's what they had to say...

Experience

For most jobs, employers prefer to hire someone who has at least some work experience.

Here's how they suggested you get some work experience if you don't already have some:

- Do work experience in a job or industry you're interested in
- Take an entry level position in your preferred industry
- Do some volunteer work
- Use your network of friends, family and family friends to get some work experience

They are also happy for you to draw on your experience at school, in sports or social clubs or work you have done in the community.

Skills and qualifications

Sometimes employers need and want you to have official qualifications for the type of job you've applied for.

Employers also look for specific skills that you will need to do the job well – you can develop these skills through study, work experience, volunteer work or other activities or events you've been involved in.

Social skills

Employers really value good social and communication skills. They pointed out a few key areas where they're looking for good social skills, including:

- Teamwork – employers need someone who can work well with other people
- Positive attitude – employers want someone who approaches their work with energy and enthusiasm and a 'can do' attitude
- Communication skills – employers are usually looking for someone who is a good, clear talker and maybe also a good writer, depending on the job.

Employers want someone who approaches their work with energy and enthusiasm and a 'can do' attitude

Reliability

Employers want to hire someone dependable who is going to turn up to work on time and work to a reasonable standard.

Employers are also looking for someone loyal – they want you to commit to the job for at least as long as you say you will.

They also want someone who will be responsible for their actions. They need you to deal with problems and not just shift the blame to other people.

Initiative

Initiative is a key thing all employers are looking for. They want you to be proactive – they don't want to have to tell you every little thing that needs to be done, so don't wait to be asked, just get on with it and do what needs to be done.

Employers want you to use your initiative to solve problems, so keep your cool in tricky situations and know how to work towards a solution.

Employers definitely want someone with good planning and organisational skills. They don't want an employee who leaves everything until the last minute, perhaps jeopardising a project. Learn how to share tasks between team members.

And finally, employers are looking for someone keen to learn and practise new things.

Checklist: 7 ways to prepare for a job interview

Here are some key things to get sorted when you're preparing for a job interview:

☐ 1. Know where you're going.

This one might sound obvious, but many people leave home without the address or their contact's name. Write down the address and the name of the person you're meeting (and their phone number if you have it), or put it in your phone.

Look up the address on a map in advance so you know exactly how to get there. Make sure you check the timetables if you're getting there on public transport.

☐ 2. Don't be late!

Give yourself plenty of time to get there so you're not flustered and sweating. Aim to arrive at the interview at least 15 minutes early.

☐ 3. Dress to impress.

Even if you're going for a job where you'll have to wear a uniform or overalls and get down and dirty, make sure you're wearing clean and ironed clothes. That way you will appear committed and professional.

☐ 4. Sniff the pits!

Make sure you're showered and deodorised and smelling pleasant and your hair is clean and tame. Don't use too much perfume or aftershave though!

☐ 5. Bring your resume.

Take a copy of your resume with you and refer to it during the interview if you need to. Read over it on the way, or while you're waiting for the interview to start.

☐ 6. Do your research.

It's important to know the company and know what the job requires. If you can, visit their website and see what they have to say about themselves. Do a search for them online to see if they've been in the news. If you can, try to find other people who work for the company so you can ask them some questions.

☐ 7. Prepare your answers.

You should prepare some answers to the questions you're expecting. You should also prepare some questions to ask them yourself. Some common questions you could prepare answers for are on the next page.

13 common job interview questions

Here are some common interview questions and some quick tips for ways you could answer them.

1. Tell us about yourself.

- Talk about school and work - don't talk about your personal life.
- Be brief - try to speak for no more than two minutes.
- Use this as an opportunity to demonstrate your communication skills.

2. What do you think this position involves?

- You can only properly answer this if you've researched the company and the job.
- Pay attention to what they say about the job and the company, then try putting it into your own words.

3. Why do you want this job?

- Show that you know about the company and prove you've done your homework.
- Tell them why you're the right person for the job.
- Don't sound like you're desperate!

4. What are your strengths?

- Know at least five things you're good at.
- Make your strengths relevant to the job.
- Keep your answers short.

5. What are your weaknesses?

- Turn a negative into a positive.
- Talk about what you're doing to overcome your weaknesses.
- Make it relevant to the job.

6. Tell us about a time when things went wrong and what you did to fix it.

- Prepare two or three examples in advance.
- Make your examples relevant to the job.
- Show that you have initiative.

7. How do you deal with conflict in the workplace?

- This question tests your 'people' skills.
- Conflict could be a conflict of opinion or ideas.
- Conflict could also be a personality clash.
- Not all conflict is negative - it can inspire creative solutions to problems.
- Demonstrate your ability to resolve issues.

8. Give us an example of how you have worked as part of a team.

- Prepare an example that demonstrates how you fit into a team - you could either be the leader or the one who's good at following orders.
- If you don't have paid work experience, talk about work experience you've done for school, volunteering, school projects, sport or a hobby group you belong to.

9. What has been your biggest accomplishment so far?

- You don't have to have done something earth-shattering - small things done well can be just as impressive.
- Think of something you've done at school or work that you're proud of or happy with.
- If you're just starting out in work you could talk about what you hope to accomplish in the future.
- Be honest - don't make anything up!

10. What are your goals? Where do you see yourself in five years?

- Talk about work or study - don't talk about your personal goals.
- Try to connect your goals to the company and the job.

11. When can you start and what's your availability?

- It's important to know the answer to this one before you come to the interview.
- Do you have to give notice to your current employer? Check your contract or agreement.
- Do you want to take a break between jobs for some rest and recreation?
- Are there any days or times you're not available?
- Try to be flexible.

12. What are your salary expectations?

- Check out awards and minimum wages before the interview - call the Federal Government's Fair Work Infoline on 13 13 94 or visit www.fairwork.gov.au for more information.
- Use this question as an opportunity to sell yourself.
- Don't negotiate a final figure for your salary or wages in a job interview - wait until they offer you the job.

LIFE FROM EVERY ANGLE

YOUTHCENTRAL.VIC.GOV.AU

13. Any questions for us?

- It's OK to ask the interviewer about the salary range during the interview.
- Try to ask specific questions about the company and the role
- If you're stuck, ask:
 - How would you describe the culture here?
 - What would I be expected to do on an average day?
 - What would be the top three priorities for this job?

→ Australian Apprenticeship Pathways

websites all have this feature as well as great extra information on finding your skills and job pathway research ☺

School based apprenticeships and traineeships

What are they?

School based apprenticeships and traineeships are paid employment based training arrangements between a full-time school student and an employer.

School based apprenticeships and traineeships allow young people to develop employment skills through hands-on industry experience within an actual workplace. The school based apprenticeship/traineeship becomes part of the student's broader education program as students work towards a nationally recognised qualification while completing their senior school studies.

Who are they for?

This option is for students who are interested in pursuing a career pathway in a specific vocation and also want to complete their senior schooling.

What's the difference?

Apprenticeships

School based apprentices are trained in a skilled trade and become a qualified tradesperson with a certificate III or IV qualification when completed. It provides an early start in a chosen trade which the student rolls over into full time work and training once they leave school (3-5 year commitment).

Traineeships

School based trainees are trained in a vocational area and receive a certificate II or III qualification when completed. The traineeship provides an understanding of the industry and the employment opportunities available and will most likely be completed by the end of Year 12.

Benefits for students

- Develop skills that are highly regarded by employers
- Earn while learning job specific skills and knowledge
- Become a competent and productive employee
- Develop an insight into a career pathway
- Work towards achieving a nationally recognised qualification
- May contribute to the Western Australian Certificate of Education

All school based apprenticeship and traineeship (SBA/T) opportunities must be endorsed by the school as a valuable contribution to the student's overall school program.

SBT Process for schools and students

1. What is your career pathway?

 - Year Leader
 - Work Place Learning Coordinator
3. Prepare your resume, Smart move certificates and portfolio. Obtain your USI.
4. Induction and work readiness for student.
5. School to arrange a meeting for all parties to be involved in SBT. AASN, employer, GTO, RTO.
6. Begin WPL trial for 4 weeks (or as agreed)
7. Review session of trial. Sign up for SBT
8. Regular face to face meeting with all stakeholders. Discuss expectations, progress, roles and responsibilities. Monthly training reports.

smart move

SafetyLine

The SmartMove Certificate

The WorkSafe SmartMove Certificate has been developed for students in years ten to twelve, and for new young workers between the ages of 15 to 21. It is designed to make young workers more aware of what can happen in the workplace. It gives students/young workers a chance to learn about the potential dangers, rights and responsibilities that exist within the workplace. You will need to register (<https://smartmove.safetyline.wa.gov.au/login/index.php>) with the website and log in before attempting the SmartMove Certificate, as progress, results and achieved certificates are saved.

The General Module introduces important facts about safety laws and common hazards, and needs to be completed before you can access the Industry Modules. Once you have completed the General Module, you can then select an Industry Module that best suits your future or current work placement, or your area of interest. Each of the Industry Modules contain more detailed information on the main hazards specific to each industry.

WorkSafe SmartMove will generate a downloadable and printable certificate when you successfully complete ONE Industry Module quiz. The Industry Module quizzes also contains questions on issues that were covered in the General Module. If a teacher/trainer wishes to integrate the SmartMove Certificate into the Passport Program (<https://smartmove.safetyline.wa.gov.au/course/view.php?id=3>), it is recommended that the Certificate isn't attempted until Lessons 1 to 4 of the Passport Program are completed. Students may struggle to complete the Certificate successfully without some prior WHS knowledge.

Q Can you tell me more about the SmartMove General Module?

- A To gain a SmartMove certificate, you first need to complete the General Module quiz before attempting an Industry Module. The module contains work health and safety (WHS) general knowledge information, and multiple-choice questions, that relate to the information presented. Once you have passed the general module with a score of 80% or higher (28 out of a possible 35, with multiple attempts permitted) the Industry Modules become available. Go to an Industry Module of your choice, complete the Industry Module quiz, and download/print your certificate.
- Please note there is no certificate for just completing the general module.

Q Can you tell me more about the Industry Modules?

- A There are 14 Industry Modules available, each one relating to specific workplace environments. The Industry Modules become available once you have scored 80% or higher on the General Module. The Industry Module quizzes are in a slightly different format to the General Module quiz, and each one contains WHS information relating to a specific workplace, as well as multiple-choice questions. To obtain the SmartMove certificate, simply choose ONE Industry Module quiz and score 80% or higher, (13 out of a possible 16), once you have finished the General Module quiz. Upon successful completion, a certificate will be generated that states you have passed both the General Module and relevant Industry Module. You can attempt each Industry Module as often as you like.

Q Can you tell me about the WHS Extension quiz/certificate?

- A The WHS certificate is specifically designed for students with special educational needs that may find the Industry Module quizzes overly challenging, or may not be entering a workplace in the near future. It is formatted in the same way as the General Module. Scoring 80%, (10 out of a possible 12), generates a SmartMove certificate. Unlike the Industry Modules, students do not need to pass the General Module to access this module. Complete the WHS Extension Module quiz, and download/print your certificate.

Q What are all of the modules that are available? What information do they contain?

- A Below is a list of all the modules, both General and Industry, that make up the SmartMove certificate. Each one links to downloadable/printable documents which contain all of the WHS information that appears in the online modules. Please note that none of the documents contain their related quiz.
