

Teacher's Marking Guide

Year 10 HASS – History Pre/Post Unit Test 2021

TOTAL: 30 marks

1. What is the message and purpose of the two sources below (4 marks)

Source One: Propaganda Poster WW2 (1943) "He's coming South. It's fight, work or perish". Propaganda poster released by the Australian Government.

Message:

Correctly identifies the message of the source (1 mark)

Message: points to that which the author is trying to communicate

Example: The author of Source One is informing and making the audience aware of the armed (Japanese) forces that are heading toward Australia.

Accept reasonable responses

Purpose:

Provides a brief explanation of the purpose of the source (1 mark)

Purpose: What was the reason for creating/ making the Source?

Example: Source One, being a propaganda poster, was meant to get Australians to prepare for the fast approaching, possible Japanese invasion attempts. The intent was to illustrate the serious need for all Australians to join the defence effort, or risk perishing at the hands of the Japanese.

Accept reasonable responses

Source Two: Political Cartoon by Bernard Partridge

1932. 'For Defence Only. Germany. "I never did like the look of that old word." (a Jack-booted German soldier puts up the letter P in front of the word Reparations to spell Preparations, while old bill poster Treaty of Versailles is tattered and falling off the wall)

Message:

Correctly identifies the message of the source (1 mark)

Message: points to that which the author is trying to communicate

Example: The author of Source Two is informing and bringing to the audience's attention how Germany abandoned the Treaty of Versailles, and particularly moved away from paying reparations to rebuilding their military.

Accept reasonable responses

Purpose:

Provides a brief explanation of the purpose of the source (1 mark)

Purpose: What was the reason for creating/ making the Source?

Example: Source Two's purpose was to show the rising of Germany's defiance against the 'harsh' Terms of the Treaty of Versailles. This is depicted by a German soldier climbing a ladder in order to add the letter 'P', effectively changing reparations to preparations. The purpose therefore is to show resurgence of Germany.

Accept reasonable responses

Letter from President Truman to Samuel McCrea Cavert August 11, 1945

August 11, 1945

My dear Mr. Cavert:

I appreciated very much your telegram of August ninth.

Nobody is more disturbed over the use of Atomic bombs than I am but I was greatly disturbed over the unwarranted attack by the Japanese on Pearl Harbor and their murder of our prisoners of war. The only language they seem to understand is the one we have been using to bombard them.

When you have to deal with a beast you have to treat him as a beast. It is most regrettable but nevertheless true.

Sincerely yours,

HARRY S. TRUMAN

Mr. Samuel McCrea Cavert
General Secretary

TO OUR GOOD AND LOYAL SUBJECTS:

After pondering deeply the general trends of the world and the actual conditions obtaining in Our Empire today, We have decided to effect a settlement of the present situation by resorting to an extraordinary measure.

We have ordered Our Government to communicate to the Governments of the United States, Great Britain, China and the Soviet Union that Our Empire accepts the provisions of their Joint Declaration.

But now the war has lasted for nearly four years. Despite the best that has been done by everyone – the gallant fighting of the military and naval forces, the diligence and assiduity of Our servants of the State, and the devoted service of Our one hundred million people – the war situation has developed not necessarily to Japan's advantage, while the general trends of the world have all turned against her interest.

Moreover, the enemy has begun to employ a new and most cruel bomb, the power of which to do damage is, indeed, incalculable, taking the toll of many innocent lives. Should We continue to fight, not only would it result in an ultimate collapse and obliteration of the Japanese nation, but also it would lead to the total extinction of human civilization.

Such being the case, how are We to save the millions of Our subjects, or to atone Ourselves before the hallowed spirits of Our Imperial Ancestors? This is the reason why We have ordered the acceptance of the provisions of the Joint Declaration of the Powers.

Source Four: Statement released by Emperor Hirohito after the bombings. Note: no use of the word “surrender”

2. “There are two sides to every story.” Using the two sources above, explain the two perspectives of bombing of Nagasaki and Hiroshima. Use T.E.E.L structure. (5 marks)

Description	Marks

3. What is the difference between a primary and secondary source? Give an example of each (3 marks)

Description	Marks
Explains the difference between primary (1) and secondary sources (1) and gives correct examples (0.5 each)	3
Sample: A primary source is a source that was produced at the time of the event(s) in history that are being studied. A secondary source is produced later and often involves the collection and examination of a range of primary sources. A true primary source would be a letter written by a soldier based in New Guinea during World War II, describing the conditions under which he is living. A true secondary source would be a history text about the lives of soldiers during the New Guinea campaign, based on a wide range of letters, diaries and military records from the time, but written in 2014.

4. Which historical concept would be most helpful to historians attempting to understand the factors that led to certain Indigenous Australian children being taken from their families by force during the 20th century? Explain your response. (5 marks)

Description	Marks
Provides a clear and comprehensive explanation justifying the appropriateness and suitability of the chosen historical concept. Uses well-constructed sentences and correct writing conventions.	5
Provides a clear explanation justifying the suitability of the chosen historical concept. Uses well-constructed sentences and correct writing conventions.	3-4
Provides a basic explanation justifying the chosen historical concept.	1-2
Sample A range of historical concepts would assist students to understand the removal of part-Aboriginal children from their families, but the most significant of these is empathy. Empathy allows students to attempt to understand the feelings of loss experienced by Aboriginal children and their families. Empathy also allows present-day students to grasp the different ideas and values of white Australians in the 19th and 20th centuries. Other concepts such as perspectives and cause and effect could also assist students to understand this complex issue.

Uses T.E.E.L structure. Provides a clear, succinct and coherently constructed explanation of the concept of perspective. Demonstrates some understanding through application of the concept to Australia Day contentions.	3
Uses T.E.E.L structure. Provides a good explanation of the concept of perspective. Demonstrates some understanding through application of the concept to Australia Day contentions.	2
Uses T.E.E.L structure. Provides a poor explanation of the concept of perspective. Demonstrates limited understanding of the concept.	1
Sample Perspective refers to the particular point of view from which a student of history views a particular person, event, movement or experience, from the past. A historian's knowledge, experiences, access to evidence or preconceived ideas can all colour the way that he or she views the past. The historian can also gain a greater understanding of events and movements in the past by researching the ideas and values of the period under study. This assists them to view events through the minds of those in the past. Australian society holds different views on celebrating Australia day, based on varying points of view. Some believe that 26th January marks the invasion day, which makes it a day not worth celebrating. Others believe that the day marks the arrival of settlers, and the birth of modern Australia in which we all thrive today, thus worth celebrating. It remains a contentious issue as there are deep divisions perpetuated by different perspectives on the matter.
