

Question 1

(40 marks)

Compose an imaginative or persuasive text that uses language features and text structures in response to the image below.

Criteria	Marks
Engagement with the question
Strong engagement with the stimulus material; demonstrates effective understanding of persuasive or imaginative form, purpose and audience.	9–10
Clear engagement with the stimulus material; demonstrates sound understanding of persuasive or imaginative form, purpose and audience.	7–8
Adequate engagement with the stimulus material; demonstrates satisfactory understanding of persuasive or imaginative form, purpose and audience.	5–6
Limited engagement with the stimulus material; demonstrates some understanding of persuasive or imaginative text type.	3–4
Very limited or no engagement with the stimulus material; too brief, irrelevant or underdeveloped response.	1–2
No evidence of this criterion.	0
Subtotal	10
Use of language features
Effective use of persuasive and/or imaginative language features for deliberate effect and purpose.	9–10
Competent use of persuasive and/or imaginative language features for clear effect or purpose.	7–8
Some use of persuasive and/or imaginative language features to develop response.	5–6
Limited use of persuasive and/or imaginative language features with limited development.	3–4
Very limited use of persuasive and/or imaginative language features with limited purpose or effect.	1–2
No evidence of this criterion.	0
Subtotal	10
Use of text structures
Effective use of generic conventions and structural devices appropriate for chosen form to effectively communicate and present idea(s).	9–10
Competent use of generic conventions and structural devices appropriate for chosen form to effectively communicate and present idea(s).	7–8
Some use of generic conventions and structural devices appropriate for chosen form to communicate and present idea(s).	5–6
Limited use of generic conventions and structural devices appropriate for chosen form to communicate and present idea(s).	3–4
Very limited use of generic conventions and structural devices appropriate for chosen form to communicate and present idea(s).	1–2
No evidence of this criterion.	0
Subtotal	10
Written expression
Sustained control of spelling, punctuation, sentence structures and grammar; effective vocabulary mostly spelt correctly; use of punctuation for deliberate effect.	9–10
Effectively controls spelling, punctuation, syntax and grammar; appropriate vocabulary mostly spelt correctly; some use of punctuation for deliberate effect.	7–8
Controls spelling, punctuation, sentence structures and grammar; appropriate vocabulary; simple and frequently used words spelt correctly; use of punctuation is mostly correct.	5–6
Frequent errors in spelling, punctuation, sentence structures and grammar; simple vocabulary; most simple and frequently used words are spelt correctly; some use of punctuation.	3–4
Demonstrates limited control of spelling, punctuation, sentence structures and grammar; most simple words are spelt incorrectly; limited use of punctuation or capital letters; very limited coherence or produces an underdeveloped response.	1–2
No evidence of this criterion.	0
Subtotal	10
Total	40

Question 1

(40 marks)

Compose an imaginative or persuasive text that uses language features and text structures in response to the image below.

The criteria for Question 1:

The student should ensure they engage with the stimulus and compose an imaginative or persuasive text that adheres to the generic conventions of their chosen form and effectively uses appropriate language features and text structures to engage the audience and convey an idea.

The focus of this assessment is on students' composing skills.

Create a range of texts by:

- using vocabulary, spelling and sentence structures
- selecting text structures and language features to communicate and present ideas.

Students should demonstrate a sound understanding of the relationship between language features, text structures and form, purpose, audience, context and intended response.

Students must select text structures and language features appropriate to their chosen form to communicate and present an idea.

Students must ensure they use appropriate vocabulary, spelling and sentence structures.

The stimulus allows for a wide range of possibilities, including, but not limited to:

- Australian lifestyle
- Australian values
- volunteering
- Surf Life Saving (Australia/Western Australia)
- heroes (different types)
- community values
- communities
- ideas about youth/childhood
- city versus country lifestyles
- urbanisation versus nature
- urbanisation
- environmental issues
- nostalgia
- different perspectives
- ideas about duality (work/leisure; work/volunteering; city/country).

Students may make use of personal experiences or texts studied if such reference supports the purpose of their writing. However, this is not a requirement of this task.

Stronger students will demonstrate:

- creative use of language features appropriate for purpose, audience, context and form
- a clear sense of voice appropriate for their chosen form
- control of language
- use of a well-developed vocabulary
- effective use of structural devices
- an understanding of the relationship between text structures, language features, form, purpose, audience, context and intended response
- how texts convey values, attitudes and perspectives
- effective engagement with the stimulus.

Use the marking key for Question 1 on page 3.

Supporting information

Imaginative writing

Students who write an imaginative text should ensure they clearly engage with the stimulus, adhere to the generic conventions of an imaginative text and communicate an idea. The primary purpose of an imaginary text must be to entertain or provoke thought through the use of imaginative or literary devices.

Text structures

Markers should consider how effectively the student has adhered to the conventions of their chosen form.

Imaginative forms include:

- short stories
- fictional diary entries
- extract from a novel
- drama script
- poetry.

Narrative conventions include:

- plot
 - orientation
 - complication
 - rising conflict
 - climax
 - denouement
 - resolution
- characterisation (actions, thoughts, speech, effect on others)
 - direct characterisation (explicitly stated by the text)
 - indirect characterisation (name, setting, dialogue, other characters' reactions, body language, behaviour, physical appearance, character's thoughts).
- theme
- narrative point of view (first, second or third person; limited; subjective; objective; internal, external, unreliable, naïve, detached, omniscient, intrusive narrator)
- setting
- dialogue
- tone, mood, atmosphere
- brief time frame
- problem-resolution structure.

Students should ensure they are writing in paragraphs.

Language features

Figurative language includes:

visual imagery
olfactory imagery gustatory imagery tactile imagery auditory imagery symbolism metonymy

simile metaphor alliteration assonance onomatopoeia personification consonance

repetition motif euphony cacophony allegory synecdoche

Persuasive writing

Students who write a persuasive text should ensure they clearly engage with the stimulus, adhere to the generic conventions of a persuasive text and communicate an idea. The primary purpose of a persuasive text is to put forward a viewpoint and persuade an audience.

Text structures

Markers should consider how effectively the student has adhered to the conventions of their chosen form.

Persuasive forms include:

- article
- blog
- debate
- editorial
- feature article
- opinion piece
- open letter
- persuasive essay
- persuasive letter
- polemic
- speech/address.

Persuasive conventions include:

- appeals
- evidence
- experts
- facts
- rhetorical questions
- repetition
- statistics

Students may use imaginative writing techniques to engage their audience in their persuasive text and communicate an idea.

Students should ensure they are writing in paragraphs.

Language features

Persuasive devices include:

alliteration	clichés	inclusive language	rephrasing
allusion	colloquialisms	invective language	sarcasm
amplification	connotative language	irony	satire
analogy	data	jargon	simile
anaphora	descriptive language	humour	supporting evidence anecdote	emotive language	lexical choice	tricolon
antagonise	embellishment	litotes	understatement
antimetabole	euphemism	nominalisations	word choice
antiphrasis	exaggeration	metaphor
antithesis	expansion	metonymy
analogy	figurative language	onomatopoeia
appositive	generalisations	option
assonance	hyperbole	oxymoron
authority figures	imagery	parallelism
binary oppositions	imperatives	pun

Students may appeal to:

reason (logos)

emotion (pathos)

character/ethics (ethos)

compassion

common sense fairness fear money patriotism tradition family values

Australian values