

Message Rule: M E C C		MESSAGE: What is the source saying about the focus?					Perspective Rule: P D A
		What event/person/focus being portrayed?	How is the event/ person/ focus being portrayed?	What do I need to know about the event/focus in order to understand the message?	What is the source telling me about the event/ focus?
HISTORICAL CONTEXT: What are the events surrounding the source?	When was the source made? What key events were happening?	 What questions do you need to ask the source? PUT THE SOURCE HERE					Who wrote the source? What is their relationship to the source? What was there MOTIVE (why)?
	Who are the key people involved in the event?						What TIME was the source written? How would this influence the perspective?
	What are the key ideas/ ideologies surrounding this event?						What is the PLACE of the source? What country/state was it created? How would this impact the perspective?
	What key events happened before this event that could of led to the focus? What effect/impact did the events of the source have?						What was the PURPOSE of the source? Was it to inform, persuade etc.
							How is the author demonstrating their perspective? (Choice of words, inclusion of detail, facial expressions etc)
Historical Context rule: I C E		What is the origin of the source? (Who, when, where has it come from?	How is the source relevant to the focus being studied?	When was the source made? How would this influence they type of information being presented?	What is the context of the source? (Key events, people, ideas)	What are the limitations? Is there bias present, is there important information missing?	Usefulness rule U L E
		USEFULNESS: What information does the source give us about the event in question?						