

US Involvement in the Second World War

□ The USA's entry into WWII

- Relations with the Tripartite Pact, or Axis Powers countries - Germany, Japan and Italy - deteriorated steadily during the 1930s.

Table 4. Deteriorating Relations with the USA.

Deteriorating Relations Between US and Axis Powers
Date	Germany	Japan	Italy
1931		Manchurian Incident
1932		Japanese occupation of Shanghai
		Withdraw from League of Nations
1933	Election of Hitler
1934	Withdraw from League of Nations		Withdraw from League of Nations
1935	Rearmament		Italo-Abyssinian War
1936	Aid to Spanish Fascists		Aid to Spanish Fascists
1937		Second Sino-Japanese War
	Annexation of Austria	USS Panay Incident
1938	and Czech
	Invasion of Poland
1939	Anger over 'Destroyers for bases'
1940	Anger over Lend-Lease Act	Invasion of Indo-China
		'Greater East Asia Coprosperity Sphere'
1941	Unofficial war with USA	Bombing of Pearl Harbour	Declares war on US 11/12/41
	Declares on US 11/12/41	Declares war on US 7/12/41

- In response to the actions of the Axis powers during the 1930s, America sought isolation and neutrality through:
 - Tydings-McDuffie Act (1934)
 - The Neutrality Acts (1935, '36 and '37)
 - The proposed Ludlow Amendment to the Constitution (1937)
 - New immigration quotas preventing Jews migrating from Europe (1936)